

Western area continues to attract new development

By Murrel Bland

Western Wyandotte County continues to be a good location for development. That was the message that Greg Kindle delivered at a membership meeting of Business West Wednesday, March 15 at The Dotte Spot Bar and Grill. About 15 members attended.

Kindle is President of †he Wyandotte Economic Development Council. Among the recent major projects, as noted in the agency's annual report for 2022, include:

• Urban Outfitters, a $403 million investment at 118trh Street and State Avenue. This will be a national distribution location.

• The Turner Logistics Building Five at 615 N. 69th St. This is a $19 million investment.

• Orange EV is an electric vehicle manufacturer at 900 N. 69th St. This is a $38,310,000 investment.

• Homefield and Margaritaville Resort is near 98th Street and State Avenue. This location was the former Schlitterbahn waterpark. It will include youth sports venues, lounges, indoor playing courts, an athletic training center, various retail shops, a hotel and apartments. This will be a $150 million investment.

• Kansas City, Kansas, Community College student housing. This is a $20 million investment.

Kindle said the Council is sensitive to workforce development issues and having affordable childcare is an important factor.

Kindle said it is important pay to attention to the needs of existing business because that is where growth will occur.

Murrel Bland is the former editor of The Wyandotte West and the Piper Press. He is Recording Secretary of Business West.

When the IRS might contact a taxpayer

WASHINGTON – The Internal Revenue Service reaches out in multiple ways to educate taxpayers while ensuring it fairly enforces the nation's tax laws. There are important factors to keep in mind about when the IRS may initiate direct contact with a taxpayer.

For people who owe taxes, the IRS provides many different payment options to help taxpayers meet their obligations. Taxpayers can avoid late filing and interest penalties by submitting their tax return and using one of these options to pay what they owe by April 18.

For those struggling to pay in full by the deadline, the IRS offers several different options. For example, most individual taxpayers qualify for a payment plan and can use the IRS' Online Payment Agreement to set up a payment plan (including an installment agreement) to pay off an outstanding balance over time.

People encountering a tax issue, such as an unpaid bill or a question about their taxes, will typically receive multiple letters in the mail from

Most IRS contacts with taxpayers are through regular mail delivered by the United States Postal Service. However, there are limited circumstances when the IRS will come to a home or business as part of a collection investigation, an audit or an ongoing criminal investigation.

IRS in-person visits

IRS employees that may make faceto-face visits outside an IRS office include revenue officers, revenue agents and IRS Criminal Investigation special agents. IRS employees are trained to respect taxpayer rights, and there are some important facts to keep in mind about the different types of visits. Revenue officers are IRS civil enforcement employees who work to resolve compliance issues such as unfiled returns and/or taxes owed—all situations where the taxpayer typically would have received multiple IRS letters in advance.

These in-person visits may be unscheduled and can be to share information, inform taxpayers of their tax filing and payment obligations and work with taxpayers to resolve their tax issues and bring them into compliance.

They conduct interviews to gather financial information and provide taxpayers with the necessary steps to become and remain compliant with the tax laws.

Revenue agents usually conduct in-person field audits that are normally at the taxpayer's home, place of

GENERAL ORDERS

The Senate debated two non-controversial bills this week, in addition to the budget.

If I were grading the budget we debated on the floor this week, I would give it an incomplete. I will not be supporting this budget when we vote on it tomorrow. Here are eight problems with it:

1. The budget is not structurally sound. Despite projections at the beginning of the year that we would end fiscal year 2023 with a $2.3 billion surplus, Senate Republicans have passed so many tax cuts for the wealthiest Kansans that under this budget, the state is projected to be in a deficit by fiscal year 2026.

2. The budget does not include Medicaid Expansion. Instead, the budget proposes that the state lose $71.5 million by not expanding Medicaid, which is utterly ridiculous.

3. The budget does not include additional funding for special education. Not only do we have a moral (and legal) obligation to provide these services to every student that needs them, but the lack of funding in this area deprives all students of needed resources, since school districts have to take from their general funds to cover special education costs.

4. The budget does not include any contributions to our Rainy Day fund. At a time of a record surplus, we should be putting funds away so we do not have to cut critical services during the next recession.

5. The budget does not include funding for local matching grants so local communities can access federal infrastructure funds for roads, bridges, and water programs. That does not make sense – we should want local governments to receive as many federal funds as possible to address infrastructure needs in their communities.

6. The budget does not include pay increases for state employees. Our already underpaid employees are grappling with the same record inflation as the rest of us.

7. The budget does not include funding for High-Density At-Risk. These funds help address student needs in schools with high concentrations of poverty (districts that have more than 35% of their students on the free lunch program.) This includes KCK, Turner, Shawnee Mission, and Bonner Springs.

8. The budget injects culture war rhetoric into what should be a straightforward appropriation. The Republicans added to the budget a proviso that would prohibit the six Kansas Board of Regents Universities from asking applicants a question as basic as whether they have any experience working with students from diverse backgrounds. Our State is becoming more and more diverse and we need to have administrators that have experience working with diverse student bodies.

SB83 VOUCHERS FOR PRI-VATE SCHOOLS

You may recall that during turnaround week, the Senate passed SB 83, which dramatically expands a scholarship for "low-income" students. I was opposed to this bill because it strays significantly from the original intent of the program, which was to help truly vulnerable children. When the House K-12 Education Budget Committee got ahold of this bill, however, they completely gutted that program and inserted full-blown vouchers.

The educational savings accounts (ESAs) proposed in H Sub for SB 83 would allow families to take the state base aid public schools receive for their students and put that money instead in an account to pay for unaccredited, unaccountable private schools. Reporting from the Kansas Reflector notes that in the first phase implementation of the program, eligibility would be limited to students attending or eligible to attend preschool and those who were enrolled and attending public school in grades K-12 during the previous school year. Eligible students in this age range would include those who qualify for the national free or reduced lunch program or scored very low on state assessments for language arts or mathematics. The program would be opened for all K-12 students if fewer than 2,000 eligible students enrolled in the program during the first phase.

During debate in committee and on the House floor, the representative spearheading this program, Kristey Williams, called public schools a "monopoly" and suggested that these vouchers would give parents "the opportunity to begin a micro-school, a learning pod, a small classroom like the days before in the 1800s." Representative Williams also tied this program to $2,000 teacher salary increases and special education funding, a move that Governor Kelly equated to bribery.

The bill narrowly passed the House by a vote of 64 to 61, with several Republican legislators flipping their votes under pressure from Republican leadership during a call of the House, which forces legislators to remain in the House chamber and cast a vote. Senate Republicans blocked Senate Democrats' attempts to have an up-or-down vote on the bill, and instead sent it to a conference committee, where three legislators from the House K-12 Education Budget Committee and three legislators from the Senate Education Committee will work to find a compromise. In my opinion, there's no path to good policy with this bill.

FIRST VETO OF GOVERNOR KELLY'S SECOND TERM

Governor Laura Kelly on Friday issued her first veto of her second term as governor. For the third time, she vetoed legislation that targets transgender children who want to play sports with their friends. Here is her veto message:

"As I've said before, we all want a fair and safe place for our kids to play and compete.

"That's why I support the Kansas State High School Activities Association, which was set up to ensure nobody has an unfair advantage on the playing field. The Legislature should let the Association do its job.

"Let's be clear about what this bill is all about – politics. It won't increase any test scores. It won't help any kids read or write. It won't help any teachers prepare our kids for the real world. Here's what this bill would actually do: harm the mental health of our students. That's exactly why Republican governors have joined me in vetoing similar bills.

"This bill would also reverse the progress we've made in recruiting businesses and creating jobs. It would send a signal to prospective companies that Kansas is more focused on unnecessary and divisive legislation than becoming a place where young people want to work and raise a family.

"Therefore, under Article 2, Section 14(a) of the Constitution, I hereby veto House Bill 2238."

LANDMARK COURT OF AP-PEALS RULING

On Friday morning, the Kansas Court of Appeals made a landmark ruling that affirmed that voting is a fundamental right and that the state must prove that they have a compelling state interest in imposing restrictions on this right. The ruling was issued in response to a lawsuit filed by the League of Women Voters, Loud Light, Kansas Appleseed, and the Topeka Independent Living Resource Center.

I am pleased that the court recognized this right, and I am hopeful that this ruling will not only lead to the reversal of several laws on the books that currently restrict access to voting, but also deter Republicans in the legislature from advancing further legislation aimed at disenfranchising our fellow Kansans.

COMMITTEE UPDATE

This year, I serve on the following committees:

- Education
- Public Health and Welfare
- Ways and Means

You can click on the hyperlinked committee names to access the upcoming agendas.

This the last week for committee hearings. This is also the last opportunity to pass bills out of committee. I have listed some of the bills we will be hearing and possibly working this week. In Education:

• YET ANOTHER AN-TI-TRANS BILL: Because Republicans in the Legislature want to make it clear just how obsessed they are with children's genitals, Senate Education will hold a hearing on Wednesday on yet another bill targeting trans youth. SB 255 would require that separate overnight accommodations be provided for students of each biological sex during school district-sponsored travel. It provides a definition that explicitly excludes "an individual's psychological, chosen or subjective experience of gender."

In Public Health & Welfare:

We are hearing 10 bills this week and working as many as the chair can fit into the schedule. Here are a few of the bills we will be hearing:

• SB287–Expanding the Kansas silver alert plan to include persons 18 years or older who have dementia, a developmental disability or a cognitive impairment.

• SB315 – Requiring child care facilities, elementary, secondary and postsecondary educational institutions and employers to grant exemptions from vaccine requirements without inquiring in the sincerity of the request and repealing the meningitis vaccine requirement to live in student housing.

• SB234 – Prohibiting governmental entities from sharing or transmitting social care information into a closed loop referral system.

• SB314 – Prohibiting the secretary of health and environment from requiring COVID-19 vaccination for children attending a child care facility or school.

• HB2141 – Requiring custodial and non-custodial parents to cooperate with child support enforcement programs for food assistance eligibility and disqualifying such parents from food assistance for being delinquent in support payments.

ABC News reported that that Special Counsel Jack Smith's office had presented evidence to the judge in the investigation into former president Trump's taking of classified documents that were still in his possession at Mar a Lago. They showed that, The former president had committed criminal violations. Current judge, James Mosberg added, "The attorney-client privileges invoked by two of Trump's lawyers; could therefore be pierced."

Judge Howell, whose term ended on Friday, ordered Trump lawyer, Evan Corcoran to appear before the Grand Jury without the protection of the attorney/client privilege.

Judge Howell, also ordered Corcoran to hand over a number of records... tied to what she described as Trump's alleged, "criminal scheme," echoing prosecutors.

These records include handwritten notes, invoices, and transcriptions of personal audio recordings... Judge Howell agreed that the prosecutors, made a sufficient showing that on its face, would appear to show Trump committed crimes.

Prosecutors showed sufficient evidence that Trump "intentionally concealed the existence of additional classified documents from Trump lawyer, Evan Corcoran, putting him in an unwitting position to deceive the government.

Corcoran wrote a sworn statement that was signed by another Trump lawyer which he gave to the Justice Department. In effect swearing under oath that they had turned over all of the classified documents in Trump's possession.

Big trouble for these two lawyers came when the FBI went to Mar a Lago to execute a search warrant and were able to find more than 100 additional documents that were marked "classified." These include more classified documents found in Trump's desk. This could spell more legal trouble for Trump.

If he lied to his lawyers regarding his possession of classified documents, then, that is a very strong case of Obstruction of Justice against Trump. A three-judge panel is asking Trump's attorneys to specify the precise set of documents at issue by midnight of the same day, March 21. They must also respond to the Special Counsel, Jack Smith's team by 6 AM, of the next day.

These moves indicate that the case is now on a fast track of being resolved. Good news for all persons who are involved and as expected, Trump has already appealed the decision. In addition, this is a short summary of other crimes Trump may be Indicted for. The DOJ must decide just how culpable Trump is for the January 6 attack on the Capitol. A state probe in Georgia, on then president Trump's attempt to overturn the 2020 election and steal the victory from Joe Biden continues. There's the case in New York, where as the former Special Counsel, Robert Mueller testified that,

Trump remains an unindicted co-conspirator in the case of his personal lawyer and fixer Michael Cohen. Trump ordered hush money payments to an adult film actress, using 2016 Campaign funds illegally and then, fraudulently listing these payments as lawyer's fees. It's doubtful that Trump would have won in 2016 had the actress not been paid for her silence.

Evidence by the prosecution are the many checks that were signed by Trump. This indicates that he was fully aware of what he was doing just prior to the 2016 election. Only time will tell which of these crimes will be the one that finally puts an end to Trump's life of lawless behavior.

It's amazing how such a man can still hold sway over so many people in the US. Sadly, they consider everything as being "Fake News." Except, that it is not.
