

KDHE Amends Travel Quarantine List

TOPEKA – The Kansas Department of Health and Environment (KDHE) has amended its travel quarantine list. Florida as well as those countries with a CDC Level 3 Travel Health Notice with restrictions remain, but Arizona, Bahrain and French Guiana are removed effective today. Those traveling internationally are subject to CDC re-entry guidance and protocols.

This list is effective for all persons returning to or entering Kansas on the effective dates. The state will review/update this list every two weeks. A comprehensive list of those individuals needing to quarantine for 14 days includes visitors and Kansans who have:

Traveled to:

- Florida on or after June 29.
- Arizona between June 17 – July 27.
- Been on a cruise ship or river cruise on or after March 15.
- International travel to Bahrain or French Guiana July 14 – July 26.
- International travel on or after July 14 to countries with a CDC Level 3 Travel Health Notice, including China, Iran, European Schengen area, United Kingdom, Republic of Ireland and Brazil. International travelers must follow CDC guidance and protocols.

Others needing to continue quarantining:

- Anyone subject to a travel-related quarantine for a state or country previously on the travel-related quarantine list must complete their 14-day quarantine period.
- Received notification from public health officials (state or local) that you are a close contact of a laboratory-confirmed case of COVID-19.

“It’s important to remember that traveling comes with risks,” Dr. Lee Norman, KDHE Secretary said. “We encourage those thinking about traveling to review their options, determine its necessity and if choosing to go, remember to still take precautions: wear a mask, socially distance and avoid mass gatherings.”

States added to this list are determined by evaluating new cases in states over a two-week period, then adjusting for population size, giving a case per 100,000 population which can then be compared to the rate in Kansas. States with significantly higher rates (approximately three times higher) are added to the list. Kansas’ rate was 223 cases per 100,000 population; whereas Florida’s is currently 717 cases per 100,000 population.

Travel quarantines do not prohibit travel through Kansas. People from these locations may still travel through Kansas. If this is done, KDHE recommends limited stops, wearing a mask at rest stops or when getting gas and being six feet from others when doing so. If the destination is Kansas, they would be required to quarantine upon arrival to their destination. Critical infrastructure sector employees who have travelled to these destinations should contact their local health department regarding instructions for application of these quarantine orders while working. Critical infrastructure employees, such as public health, law enforcement, food supply, etc., need to have the staffing resources to continue serving Kansans so the local health department may allow a modified quarantine. Please note the only exemption for these quarantine mandates for critical infrastructure sector employees is work – they are not to go any other locations outside of work.

For more information on COVID-19, please visit the KDHE website at www.kdhe.ks.gov/coronavirus.

Poe Relinquishes Command of Navy’s Forward-Deployed Submarine Squadron

Commander, Submarine By Petty Officer 2nd Class Kelsey Hockenberger, Commander, Submarine Squadron 15

Squadron 15 (CSS-15) held a change of command ceremony at Konezni Hall, July 31.

After serving over two years as commodore of CSS-15, Capt. Tim Poe turned over command to Capt. Bret Grabbe, a Kansas City, Kansas native. During his time with CSS-15, Poe oversaw four Los Angeles-class fast-attack submarines in Guam as not only the commodore, but also in his prior assignment as squadron deputy commander for mission readiness.

“As deputy, I was able to see the intricacies of Guam operations and the forward-deployed units on the waterfront,” said Poe, a native of Patuxent River, Maryland. “I applied what I learned as deputy to my role as commodore and focused the squadron’s mission on manning, training and equipping our units, resulting in the deployment of all of our submarines in the past year. We’re here to assure our warfighting units are ready and capable of heeding the nation’s call at a moment’s notice.”

Many of CSS-15’s major accomplishments under Poe’s leadership include transitioning USS Asheville (SSN 758) from a shipyard unit to a deployed unit, maintaining support to four submarines and deployed units, strengthening partnerships with the community through volunteer work, and supporting the aircraft carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt (CVN 71) through Hotel Task Force.

“I am very proud of what my team has accomplished during my time here,” said Poe. “They’ve shown what it means to be a Sailor through countless hours supporting our boats by maintaining mission readiness, and they’ve thrived as shipmates by taking care of Theodore Roosevelt Sailors after a COVID-19 outbreak impacted their ship. The squadron staff and boats are the heart of what it means to be ‘Ready in all Respects.’”

Poe was properly relieved by Grabbe in the commodore’s office at Konezni Hall.

Grabbe looks forward to taking on the new role as commodore of CSS-15.

“The most rewarding jobs for me are always the ones where I get to interact with Sailors and shipmates on a regular basis,” said Grabbe, a native of Kansas City, Kansas. “I am most looking forward to engaging with the crews of our submarines and all of the ashore personnel that support our mission here in Guam.”

Grabbe emphasized the importance of the Navy’s only forward-deployed submarine force.

“I want to continue the efforts already in motion to ensure warfighting readiness meets national security demands,” he said. “This is important for the submarine force, but our geographic proximity is what adds emphasis for CSS-15. This is not limited to the submarines conducting operations; it extends to every member stationed here in Guam that supports our submarines and submariners in any way.”

CSS-15 is located at Polaris Point, Naval Base Guam in Piti, Guam, and consists of four Los Angeles-class fast attack submarines. The squadron staff is responsible for providing training, material and personnel readiness support to these commands. Also based out of Naval Base Guam are submarine tenders USS Frank Cable (AS 40) and USS Emory S. Land (AS 39). The submarines and tenders are maintained as part of the U.S. Navy’s forward-deployed submarine force and are readily capable of meeting global operational requirements.

Not a whole lot going on lately. This Virus X (joke), is really taking its toll on a lot of things. Went to Kohl's today to get Mr. Ed some belts. Went to Target first and looked and looked and then left. No one there to help us. Decided on Kohl's and some very nice clerk told us where to find them. Half of the doors are inoperable, had to let Mr. Ed out and then I parked. He doesn't get around all that well at different places. Here at home he does ok.

Little Moosie was afraid of the storms that were off and on. Put his Thundershirt on him and it calms him down quite a bit. He usually tries to be where I am, as if I can protect him. The weather wasn't as severe here as they said it was going to be. Crazy stuff out there.

Still downsizing. Got a lot of stuff to get rid of "if" we are going to move. David Young is taking my clown stuff, going to send a box of stuff to Andrea in Oregon. Sell a bunch of stuff later. Going to get rid of my organ. It is a standard size and if a church or anyone interested in it wants it, just let me know. Good condition. Selling our '03 SUV. Good condition, too. But "as is". Mr. Ed isn't going to drive anymore. Any junkers out there? Have an upright freezer needs taken away. Yours free. We want a place on one level, with the laundry facilities upstairs. A smaller yard. This house and yard are too much for us. We want in Turner proper if possible, or here in Morris. Been here since July 1999. Like I mentioned before, the older you get the more you need to downsize. I want to stay in this general area because of my job with The Record. We have looked at a couple of houses. But--I "really, really, really" love my neighbors. They are so kind here. Sure hate to move again. But you gotta do what you gotta do, right?

Phil Lopez, a wonderful gent, bought a couple of statues for Olivia from the Peddler's Daughter and put them on the little angel's memorial site. What a great man to do something like that. See, there are some kind people still around. Tami has the Peddler's Daughter is on Merriam Dr. next to Nigro's.

How buggy are you getting? Me? Pretty darn buggy. I always look forward to Tuesdays because I can get out with The Record and go to the store. Wednesday, I can write my Sudsy Soapbox and other little thingies. Sure be glad when I can get back with the Domino Dottes. We had a lot of fun and sure miss them. I have been to the garden in Turner and talked to Jim. David and I talk on the phone. I want the closeness, the touching and hugging, the laughter, the good old fun we use to have. Pleeeeeze make this pandemic go away. So many people haven't made it and it is such a shame we have to live like this. Whenever it rains, I always think that maybe it will wash that nasty stuff away. Well, my dear peeps, love you all. Please be careful. I want you all around whenever we get back to "normal", whatever that was. lol. Miss you, love you, want to see your smiling faces again and not those horrid masks. Remember your p's and q's. From your little ol' Argentine gal, Sue. Here's one: "I don't let old age bother me. I was flipping through the channels this morning and came across a program on Powell Gardens. It's that time of year again – the annual butterfly exhibit. I didn't realize that the chrysalises are ordered from outside the country, mostly from South American and Asia. Although Calvin and I haven't been for the past few years, it was always enjoyable to see the different species. Because these butterflies and moths are from different countries, it is important that they are not released outdoors. Just like other insects that have

Did COVID-19 Force You Into A Career Change? Here Are 5 Tips

It's the pandemic that brought more than illness

Across the United States, millions of people have lost jobs as COVID-19 shutdowns threw the economy into a recession. For those left unemployed – from hourly workers to professionals – It's a blow to both the pocketbook and the psyche.

"People's very identities are often tied to their jobs and careers," says Kimberly Roush, founder of All-Star Executive Coaching (www.allstarexecutivecoaching.com) and co-author of Who Are You... When You Are Big?

"In a situation like this, you've lost your job, your title, your paycheck and are left wondering who you are and where you go from here?"

Roush specializes in coaching C-level executives and recently launched a national version of a 12-hour group coaching program for executives in transition that she has run in California since the 2008 recession. She offers these tips for getting careers back on track:

Grieve – but not for too long. It's natural to take a few days to regroup after the initial shock of having a career torpedoed. But then it's time to put those bad feelings behind you and move on. "Hanging in a dark place will not serve you," Roush says. "It sucks your energy out of everyone you encounter."

Transform this transition into a positive experience. Despite the blow the situation dealt to your career and your self-esteem, it can be a chance to redefine success on your terms, as well as an opportunity to take your career off autopilot and get it moving in a direction that gives you more fulfillment, Roush says. "Science has shown that we cannot be resourceful, creative and innovative when we are in a negative state of emotions," Roush says. "Focus on what's good and what's right about this situation."

Take stock of your financial situation. You will need to cut unnecessary expenses and may need to tap into your savings, but with any luck you can avoid financial disaster, says Roush, who also has a background in accounting. "This is an excellent time to look at your spending, do some long overdue planning, and actually prepare a formal budget," she says. "There are a lot of things you can control here that will give you some peace of mind and will position you even better for the future"

Expand your network – and use it. Most jobs come through networking, so start making those connections right away. "Your network isn't just everyone you've worked with in the past," Roush says. "It's your customers, your vendors, your family members, your neighbors, your fellow soccer moms and dads, your church members or fellow volunteers. You never know where your lead for your next great job is going to come from."

Create structure for your day. Since you've lost your daily routine, create a new one. Set goals for each day or each week, such as connect with 15 people in your network each week or add two new LinkedIn connections each day. But allow yourself some downtime as well, Roush says. Don't let the job hunt become all-consuming.

"If you keep your head in the game and do the work, you will find meaningful work again, likely in a better position than the last one you were in," Roush says.

"Just keep your spirits up, stay positive and, as difficult as that may seem, enjoy the ride."

managed to land on our shores, they could become invasive and many could be predators. Tickets can be purchased online to attend, and everyone is required to wear a mask.

Beth Wyatt started our own butterfly habitat in the south end of the hoop house. She planted milkweed along with additional butterfly host plants. One monarch butterfly has already morphed and has been flying around enjoying the milkweed. Beth found the caterpillar in her garden and brought it to the garden a couple of weeks ago. Calvin has ordered monarch larva from Monarch Watch and they will be arriving shortly to begin their transformation. We still plan to have a Butterfly tagging in September when the butterflies migrate.

The last K State Horticulture Newsletter had a short article by Ward Upham, extension associate, on using "Wood Chips as Mulch." Some people are afraid the chips will tie up nitrogen in the soil and the garden plants will not grow as well. Ward says there is no cause for concern. But if the chips are mixed in the soil there could be a problem in the breakdown process. The microorganisms that break down the chips need a certain amount of nitrogen during the process. Normally, with green material there is enough nitrogen to meet the needs of the microorganisms. Nitrogen levels in the wood chips are so low that the microorganisms must borrow it from the surrounding soil. This does result in less nitrogen being available to the plant. However, when raw the raw organic material has been digested, the microorganisms die and release the nitrogen. So, nitrogen is not lost but unavailable to the plant for a period of time. This is only a concern if the wood chips are mixed into the soil. There is No Problem with nitrogen tie-up if the chips are used as mulch. There is one thing to be kept in mind. These chips can be used by foraging termites as a bridge to homes and other structures. Termites are light and heat sensitive and will not bother the chips themselves if they are 3 inches deep or less. Be careful to watch the depth of the chips near the house or other buildings. Leave a bare area several inches wide next to the house so that any termite activity is noticeable. Thanks again to Ward for some great gardening information.

Until next time please be kind, wash your hands, practice social distancing, and wear a mask.

QUOTES TO PONDER

"With Universal Mail-in Voting (not Absentee Voting, which is good), 2020 will be the most Inaccurate & Fraudulent Election in history. It will be a great embarrassment to the USA. [He highlights this last sentence: Delay the Election until people can properly securely and safely vote???"

Donald J. Trump

"There is no way POTUS can delay the Election. We shouldn't let him distract us from his #Covid-19 Incompetence."

Senator Tom Udall, On Twitter

"I am frankly appalled by the president's recent tweet seeking to postpone the National Election." Until recently, I had taken as hyperbole the Democrats' assertion that President Trump is a Fascist. But this latest tweet is Fascistic, and in itself, grounds for the President's immediate impeachment again by the House of Representatives and his removal from office by the Senate."

Steven Calabresi, Trump ally & defender, co-founder Federalist Society

"Never in the history of Federal Elections have we not had an election, and we should go forward with our Election."

Rep. Kevin McCarthy House Minority Leader

"President Trump is the only president who has suggested delaying a general election. President Trump is desperate isolated and he clearly knows he's losing."

Chuck Todd, host MSNBC's Meet the Press

"We will cope with whatever the situation is and have the election on November 3rd, as already scheduled."

Sen. Mitch McConnell Senate Majority Leader

Only 15 minutes after his hearing of the terrible economic news, regarding the second quarter GDP, the worst in US history, President Trump goes on Twitter to make his universally rejected suggestion to delay this year's Election. Trump is unaware that his powers as president do not also include scheduling our Elections. Only Congress has that power. The United States is facing a variety of crises, the Covid-19 Pandemic, now entering its sixth month, the worsening economy with many of the country's businesses now in bankruptcy, many, never to return again. And the weeks of social unrest with protests in many urban areas in response to the killing of George Floyd while in police custody.

President Trump has failed to lead the country through these crises. The man who claims to have all the answers, Trump, has suddenly, come up short. And all of his answers, are rejected, even by those in his own party... the same men who had always defended him in the past.

Trump ordering military-style "security agents to Portland, hasn't helped him to win over persons whose lives are impacted by the institutionalized racism which pervades much of the US Justice system -- the very reason people are marching in the streets in protest.

President Trump doesn't get it, or seems oblivious to why black and brown people, and people from all racial and ethnic backgrounds, are upset by his security troops. These unknown security agents only serve to antagonize and provoke, even more outrage. And rightly so. Never before have US Civilians, out protesting, been met by militarized forces using tear gas, rubber bullets, flash and shock bombs, and batons on protesters.

Attorney General Barr and Trump refer to them as "Anarchists." They seem to believe that there is no right to protest, that the freedom of assembly does not exist, nor their right to Free Speech! Trump's hundreds of federal agents, many in camouflage or military type uniforms, driving unmarked vans, and who never presented any sort of identification, is more like the tactics of a feared dictator, not the president of the United States.

With a failed economy, Trump had wanted to cast himself as the "Law and Order" candidate. Very unusual as Trump, for his entire life, has always been one to skirt the law, and never has been held accountable for his many transgressions! What it's taken to convince his supporters in the US Capitol, what so many of us, have known all along! We remain Hopeful!

Tom's Tasty Treats

By: Tom Valverde

This week, there is a tinge of Autumn in the tasty treat. These ingredients are available year-round, so why not? Simple and easy to prepare, and perfect for a dessert, served à la mode, with your favorite vanilla ice cream!

Apple & Cranberry Streusel

Ingredients:

- 3 Apples, cored, peeled and cut into wedges
  - 3 T Butter
  - 3 c Cranberries
  - 1 c Sugar
  - 1/2 c Brown Sugar*
  - 1 t Cinnamon
- Streusel:
- 1 c Oats
  - 1 c Pecans, toasted and coarsely chopped
  - 2 T Flour
  - 1 t Cinnamon
  - 1/2 t Salt
  - 2 T Sugar
  - 2 T Flour
  - 3 1/2 T Butter, melted

*May also be made with using only granulated sugar.

Directions:

Set oven to 350°. Butter a large casserole. Add the apples and the butter to a pan and cook about 4 minutes. Take off heat. Stir in the cranberries flour and cinnamon.

Prepare the Streusel:

Combine the oats, pecans, cinnamon, salt, and sugar in a small bowl and mix together. Stir in the melted butter. Add the fruit to the buttered casserole, then sprinkle the streusel over.

Bake at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes, or until the top is golden brown. Place each serving in a bowl and add one or two scoops of Vanilla ice cream, while still warm.

So good, and so easy. Add ripe peeled and sliced pears to the fruits, as a change. You and your family will love this tasty treat!

Store chilled, in an air-tight container. Keeps for a least a week, if not all eaten first, Enjoy!

"If You Could Only See It Through My Eyes," ... Thru The Looking Glass!

By: Tom Valverde

The United States is doing well and winning the war against the Coronavirus -- Trump goes out to make this statement, if only it were true. Well over 80,000 new Covid-19 cases were confirmed in one day, with over 150,000 Americans who have lost their lives. He's oblivious to reality. With the Washington Post reporting that "Trump makes himself out to be the victim, as he "complains in private about the press 'hurting' him..." Trump will often, "Launch into a monologue, placing himself at the center of the Nation's turmoil." "Trump has cast himself in the starring role of the blameless victim of a deadly pandemic, of a stalled Economy, of deep seated, racial unrest. All of which happened to him, rather than to the country." Trump has no knowledge of how viral pandemics happen nor of what measures need to be taken to prevent further infection. He distrusts any expert medical advice, and believes that he alone, has the answers.

"No, we're winning the war, we're going to be fine, over a period of time." "But, unfortunately, we had this Plague sent in from China. They should have stopped it!" Riiight, just as Trump has been so successful in stopping the Coronavirus here, in the United States! The virus will not go away just because you say it will! Seemingly, no one from his White House staff or his advisers are able to bring Trump into the reality, that we all take for granted. Trump is still, _ell-bent on having all schools in the U.S., open for classes in the Fall. Trump has rejected giving more money for wider testing and monitoring. Trump has given Zero Dollars for the schools to provide them with the most basic of protection during this Covid-19 Pandemic-masks The Governor of New Jersey has said that his state alone, will require $4 Billion from the Federal government, to insure student and teacher safety, and provide masks and hand sanitizer to all class rooms in the State.

Trump says we test too much, and this the cause for the increase in new cases. It's an alternate reality for him, and one he truly believes is real. These are not the beliefs of a person who is in their full faculties. Endangering Americans to get the Economy up and running, makes no sense at all. To speak of the future during the uncertainty which this Pandemic entails, is foolhardy. If the current spike hasn't gone down, it would be like sending both students and teachers to be infected, and possibly die. The Coronavirus will be with us for the foreseeable future, and only when a Vaccine is made available, will it be safe again to open all classrooms and workplaces.
