Fears of Delta Variants and Mask Mandates Make Parents Question Return to Classroom

WASHINGTON, DC-(Pinkston News Service)- New CDC mask recommendations and COVID-19 variants have many parents worried about sending their kids back to the classroom in the fall. Though school districts are preparing for in-classroom learning, online alternatives are becoming more and more attractive for parents who want to keep their kids safe.

Alternatives to in-classroom learning are both expected and wanted. The Los Angeles Times recently reported that 71% of California parents agreed that online learning should remain an option for their children, holding open the possibility that shutdowns in areas of high COVID-19 transmission rates may require further lockdowns. Stride, Inc., (www.stridelearning.com), which is the largest provider of K-12 virtual learning in the country, found in their recent survey that 30% of K-8 parents said they expect that their children will receive some degree of remote instruction this fall.

Parents who are looking for safe and quality virtual learning options are enrolling their children in virtual schools. Stride's online schools saw a 39% increase in enrollment during the pandemic and raised enrollment to more than 170,000 students.

For Isaiah Gutierrez of Destinations Career Academy of Colorado, moving to an all virtual school was a life-saver. "In grammar school, I struggled with challenges related to my ADHD. After transferring to Destinations Career Academy of Colorado, my grades improved dramatically. I found I was learning more in a virtual environment than I did in my previous school," said Gutierrez.

Research shows that students retain on average 25-60% more material when learning online compared to only 8-10% in a classroom. In a classroom setting, lessons can only be taught at the pace of the slowest learner. Meanwhile, lessons delivered through e-learning can require anywhere from 40-60% less time to learn.

Virtual learning can also be ideal for students with social anxiety, and it can also shield vulnerable or marginalized students from bullying and teasing.

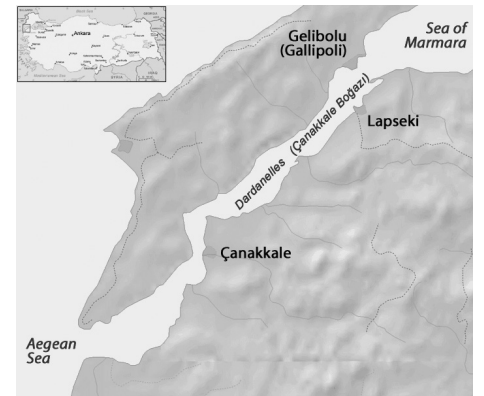

Online learning can even shield students from perceptions of racism. The Los Angeles Times has reported that 43% of Black parents said they were concerned about bullying, racism, and low academic standards. Indeed, national polling reveals that Black and Hispanic parents are far more likely than white parents to say they are keeping their children remote. Minority families stand to benefit the most from access to strong e-learning resources in the coming year.

For parents worried about COVID-19, learning loss, or even the mental health of their children, online learning provides a viable alternative. With last year's surge in virtual learning enrollment, and with another year of back-to-school worries on the horizon, virtual learning is poised to become a permanent and positive part of the educational landscape for America's schoolchildren.

Experts Know

By Dr. Jim Haas

Experts know their business better than we do, and it's not wise to ignore their advice. Case in point: During World War I, in 1915, and wanting to force Germany's Ottoman Empire ally out of the war and open a trade route to Russia, the young political head of Britain's Royal Navy, Winston Churchill, proposed sending a powerful fleet to force its way through the Dardanelles, the narrow strait in northwest Turkey that controls the sea route between the Mediterranean and the Black Sea and Russia, and past Constantinople, the Ottoman capital.

Most of the Navy's admirals and gunnery experts said the plan wouldn't succeed because Ottoman forts with heavy guns lined both sides of the strait—barely half a mile wide at one point—which also had extensive minefields. As the experts knew, naval guns were historically ineffective against forts, and mines would have to be swept under direct fire.

The experts were right. After days of bombardment by the biggest naval guns, the forts and mobile artillery were still in action, and mines had sunk several battleships with the loss of most of their crews. The Army was sent in to take the forts from behind but, lacking surprise, was stopped on the beaches by Ottoman defenders advised by an expert German general. After eleven months, the British gave up and left.

The attempt cost 120,000 Allied lives and a dozen valuable warships sunk or damaged. The cost to British morale and prestige was enormous. The fiasco cost Churchill his job, and the stain on his reputation lasted more than 20 years all because he thought he knew better than the experts who did. One top admiral later wrote that Churchill and his supporters "paid too much attention to political ends and [not enough] to the naval and military means . . ."

Sound familiar? It should because too many officials here and now favor their "political ends" more than expert advice. Republican governors and legislators in eight states are prohibiting mask mandates in schools and public offices and failing to adequately promote vaccinations. President Biden asked those governors to "please help. But if you aren't going to help, at least get out of the way of the people who are trying to do the right thing." Florida Governor DeSantis belligerently replied, "I'm standing in your way" then quickly changed the subject.

Those Republicans are making the same mistake Churchill made thinking they know better than the experts at the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and nearly every physician and public health official in the country. As with the Dardanelles, the cost will be in lives and human misery as well as economic damage.

Many of these same Republicans have ignored for decades expert warnings about climate change about which, yet again, the experts were right. Most of the West is in extreme drought, our skies are filled with smoke, heat records have been set from Vancouver to Tucson, and mega floods have hit Europe and China. Biden's infrastructure plans will cut carbon emissions but are opposed by many Republicans.

Some Republicans used to claim that evolution shouldn't be taught in schools contrary to expert knowledge and millions of years of evidence. Vaccines, surgical masks, climate change, and evolution are all based on the sciences. How is it possible, we might ask, that a sizable proportion of a major political party is a cult of scientific ignorance? The obvious explanations are (1) they can't distinguish between opinion and knowledge, and/or (2) Churchill's mistake: "too much attention to political ends." They value votes more than facts and honesty—and lives.

sledgehammers and break rock. Looked like monkeys up there. There was an old drug store on that corner way before Mickeys was there.

Maple Hill was a different story way back then. The cemetery and the shopping center and most of Gibbs Road was a Shawnee Indian village. Eventually it was bought and sold and bought and sold and now a cemetery. Santa Fe Railroad passed 144 trains a day through Argentine and Turner when the first war was active. The Structural Steel Company was really busy during that time. The steel company was torn down and it had to sit empty until the acidity in the soil was gone. Argentine has really changed throughout the years. I used to sit on Grandma Liz's steps and watch the streetcars come down Ruby Avenue. Loved those sparks. There are still some tracks that can be seen. Even The Record newspaper went through a lot of changes. It was originally The Silver City Record, Argentine Republic, Kansas City Advertisers, Wyandotte County Record, The Republic. I have been with The Record for 27 years. I used to write little articles such as, Neighborhood News, Harmon Happenings, Kids Korner (Sarabell the Clown), Emerson Park Church news, poems, short stories. Then I expanded with pictures, obituaries, included Turner, Armourdale, and Rosedale, and Sue's Soapbox and now Sue's Sudsy Soapbox. Some of this info I got from Ed Shutt and a lot of it is my memories.

So dear readers, I am glad I got acquainted with our customers, made new friends, started a domino club, worked in the Turner Community garden, just made my whole life a good one again. I love The Record, I adore my editor, Jon Males, he is great to work with. So anyway, take care, mind your p's and q's, wear your mask, get vaccinated. lvy a all. Sue

Here is another poem/prose in memory of my wonderful sisters who are in heaven, Gayle, Carolyn and Marilyn (twins) of Argentine. Heart to Heart A sister is a gift of God, sent from above to make life worthwhile here below.

I bet a lot of you don't remember the Parish House that stood in Argentine for many many years. It used to be the hub of the town and all kinds of things were held there. Christmas parties, dances, sports, like basketball, entertainment. My folks used to entertain there, and sister Gayle would sing. Even Mr. Ed sponsored a basketball team and mom and I would go watch them get their heinies beat. One thing about that property, it used to be a huge corn field. Nary a house around. Now it is a modernized place with a different name. The area where Wal-Mart is and the police station, was an orchard long long ago. Then it became a smelter that mined silver and it kept many men in jobs. After the silver had been shipped everywhere in the world, it was decided to build the Kansas City, Kansas Structural Steel Company. My Grandpa Larson worked there for 50 years. Bus Larson, my dad, worked there for 30 years and Uncle Pete Larson worked in the office. Grandad Asher was an engineer for the Santa Fe railroad and would go by our house on Metro and we would wave at him and he would toot at us. Argentine was full of beer joints and Mr. Ed's dad opened Reich's in 1934. Most of the men (men only) were allowed in. The steel workers, the railroad men as long as they were Caucasian men. Women and other races were not allowed. They played a lot of illegal games and it was known that even a lot of policemen patronized those bars. Did you know that Emerson Park used to be a "marsh"? Can you imagine a marsh next to Strong Avenue? I am sure you have heard of Monkey Mountain. They used to take prisoners up there with their

Very old picture of KCK structural steel plant.

My Grandad was an engineer and would pass our house in the 40's. We would wave and he would "toot."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I experienced the WORST customer service today at a local store. I don't want to mention the name because I'm not sure how I am going to proceed. Wednesday evening, I bought something from this store and paid cash for it. I took it home but found it didn't work. So today, less than 24 hours later, I returned it and asked for a refund. The girl at the store told me "NO". even though I had my receipt. I then asked if I could get a replacement instead. She still told me "NO". So not getting anywhere with her, I asked to speak to the manager and explained to her that I had purchased the item, but it didn't work and produced my receipt. The manager just smiled and told me to my face that I was "out of luck", no refund! No replacement! Well, I'll tell you what.. I am NEVER buying a lottery ticket at that store ever again!

Caterpillars and Butterflies! Several years ago, Calvin dedicated himself to the plight of the Monarch Butterfly and our yard received certification as a Monarch Waystation. Each year, he has presided over Monarch tagging in September at the Turner Community Garden. Last year, WYCO Master Gardener Beth Wyatt decided to add a butterfly habitat inside the aquaponics hoop house and because of her efforts, she raised two generations of Monarchs. The first generation was released, the second was tagged for migration. In the process, she ran out of tags. Once again, this year, she has created an oasis for the butterflies. Today two of our summer work kids caught and released twelve male Monarchs while leaving many more caterpillars left to evolve. Tagging will be sometime in September when the Monarchs will be in our area during migration. I'll let you know when it is scheduled.

Last week Calvin found three Monarch caterpillars in our yard, brought them in to metamorphize, and in a few days' time, released them. This year, he added fennel to our garden and now we have two Black Swallowtails caterpillars ready to evolve.

Yesterday, I attended a zoom presentation entitled "Transformation of a Superfund Site to a Pollinator Habitat" conducted by Sami Aaron, Johnson County Extension Master Naturalist. A former hazardous waste recycling business, shut down in 1989, cleaned up by the EPA and funded by responsible parties, has been converted to the Pollinator Prairie. First created in 2012 by volunteers, has been maintained by Johnson County Master Naturalists since 2017. Located at 320 S. Blake, in Olathe. It consists of four separate gardens with plants for bees, butterflies, monarchs, and birds. Areas with prairie grasses and wildflowers complete the picture. The size of each garden is about 30X60 feet and has its own kiosk. Each year, they celebrate the migration of the Monarchs entitled "Hasta Luego Monarch" with a

Governor Kelly Announces July Tax Receipts

Governor Laura Kelly announced Kansas' July tax receipts. In total, Kansas' State General Fund saw its total tax receipts for July perform $60.0 million, or 11.0%, better than the estimate with $602.6 million collected. Comparing this July's total tax receipts to the previous July's would not be a meaningful comparison as last July included receipts from tax returns from the extended filing period.

"Our July tax collection numbers are encouraging, but we must maintain fiscally-responsible policies to ensure our continued growth," said Governor Laura Kelly.

Individual income tax receipts were $20.8 million, or 8.9%, more than the estimate with $255.8 million collected. Corporate income tax collections were $34.2 million. That is $19.2 million, or 8.9%, more than the estimate.

Retail sales tax collections were up $11.6 million, or 5.2%, for the month with $233.6 million collected. That is $15.0 million, or 6.9%, more than the previous July. Compensating use tax collections were $4.3 million, or 7.8%, more than the estimate with $59.3 million collected. That is 17.8%, or $9.0 million, more than last July.

"Consumer spending on goods and services has not slowed down," Revenue Secretary Mark Burghart said. "Combined sales and use tax receipts at $292.9 million were 8.9% above July 2020 and 20.3% above pre-pandemic July 2019. Our economists are watching closely to determine if the spread of the COVID-19 Delta variant will impact what has been a strong economic recovery in Kansas."

SBA Administrator Guzman Applauds Biden Plan To Support Small Manufacturing Businesses

WASHINGTON – Today, U.S. Small Business Administration Administrator Isabella Casillas Guzman released the following statement in response to President Biden's proposed Buy American Rule:

"Last week, President Biden solidified his longstanding commitment to supporting American workers and businesses by announcing a major investment in American manufacturing. I am thrilled that the U.S. Small Business Administration will play a key role in this plan with new concentrated efforts to help American manufacturers thrive and grow, including a new manufacturing hub in our federal contracting division. Small businesses have always stood at the forefront of manufacturing in the United States, and our work will help create more opportunities for small manufacturers and their employees in cities and towns all across our country. The federal government purchased more than $31.9 billion in goods and services from nearly 25,000 small businesses in manufacturing industries in fiscal year 2020. As these numbers grow under the President's Buy American initiative, the SBA will work to ensure that U.S. small businesses play a major role in meeting the increasing demand for goods and services made in America."

Tom's Tasty Treats

By: Tom Valverde

In the Summer it's sometimes hard to come up with a dessert that is quickly made and doesn't heat up the kitchen with a hot oven. This is a classic dessert and it's ready in just a few minutes. A quick and refreshing treat for all your Summer guests! Please try:

Toms 1, 2, 3, Key Lime Pie

Ingredients:

- 1- 8oz. Pkg. Cream Cheese, softened
- 1- 14oz. Sweetened Condensed Milk
- 1/2 c Key Lime Juice, or Regular Lime Juice
- 1 8-oz Whipped Topping
- 1 Ready to use Graham Cracker Pie Crust
- Garnish Additional Whipped Topping
- Zest from 1 Lime, optional

Directions:

1. Beat the cream cheese until smooth and creamy. Beat in the Sweetened Condensed Milk and the Lime Juice. (Bottled juice will work.) Beat until mixture is combined and thick.
2. Fold in the Whipped Topping; blend well.
3. Pour filling into the Graham cracker crust. Chill the pie until set for one to one and a half hours, covered. Just before serving, top with whipped topping and the grated lime zest.

Variation:

Place crust in freezer for ten minutes. Melt 1/2 package of Dark or Semi-sweet Chocolate. Brush a coating of the melted chocolate and repeat for a thicker layer of chocolate, if desired. This variation may be garnished with grated chocolate curls and whipped topping.

Note: This pie is great even without the cream cheese! Just follow the same 1,2,3. Really, it's in to enrich the filling, but is perfect even without it. Smooth, rich, creamy and zesty from the lime juice, flavorful and tart from the cream cheese. Few, low-cost ingredients add up to a delicious treat. Try it, you'll love it! Enjoy!
