Comin' & Goin' Turner Style

By Sharon Hoover

an you smell the barbecue in the air? I turned on the TV this morning and found out that there is a Barbecue contest in Lenexa and another at Arrowhead today and tomorrow. This is the season to get out the ole grill and fire it up if you haven't already. My granddaughter and her hubby had the family over for a Father's Day celebration and we pigged out on brats and hamburgers. Of course, the 4th is just around the corner and what a better way to enjoy it is in the backyard with a cold drink and barbecue before the adults and kids start shooting off fireworks.

Turner Recreation Commission is holding "Fireworks in the Park" at Pierson Park on Tuesday, July 2. Fireworks start at 9:45 pm. No entry to the park after 9:30pm. One way traffic only. Once the lots are filled the entrances will be closed. Shelter 1 and Pierson Hall closed but all other shelters are open. No cars parking on 55th St. and no alcohol or drugs allowed in the park. Questions? 913-287-2111. Check the website (events section) for the parking map.

Recently, it was decided the gazebo in the Turner Garden needed to be raised to allow for water drainage. The guys started the project in Late May but sometimes projects get delayed as more important matters (like planting) arise. Fortunately, Pastor Steve Neal of the First Baptist Church of Turner came to our aid. He was expecting a youth volunteer group from South Dakota and needed a service project for them. They spent Wednesday hauling crushed rock with wheelbarrows and smoothing it out in the gazebo area. In addition, they harvested garlic, weeded the onion patch, and mulched the children's raised beds. The gazebo isn't quite finished but with these kids' help, we are well on our way to getting it done. Thank heaven for volunteers.

If you read "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" when you were a kid, I would suggest you read "James" by Percival Everett. It is the reimagined story told thought the eyes of enslaved Jim. One of the best books I have read this year. I don't remember much about Huck Finn's story but I am about to reread Mark Twain's original.

That's it for now. Until next time, stay safe and be kind to those around you.

Joe Maderak Remembered

By Murrel Bland

I remember the first time I met Joe Maderak. It was the spring of 1985. It was a Tuesday afternoon when Joe came into my office unannounced.

Those who knew me knew not to bother me on a Tuesday. That was the day I went to press with my weekly newspaper, The Wyandotte West.

Joe had a petition he wanted me to sign. The petition called for the formation of a new organization which would later be called Business West.

I tried everything I could do to discourage Joe from distracting me. I finally signed the petition. Later that week, when I wasn't so busy, I decided that having such an organization may not be such a bad idea.

The motivating reason for Joe's organizational efforts was the firing of the first permanent City Administrator, Myron James Medin. Voters had approved a change in the form of city government which allowed for a professional administrator to run city government. Joe, and many other Kansas City residents, were upset about the firing. Hiring a City Administrator had given people hope.

During the ensuing several years I got to know Joe very well. He was the first Chairman of the Board of Directors of Business West and I was the first Board Secretary. The organization took a stand on several issues, not being afraid because an issue was controversial.

I was sadden to learn that Joe died June 15 at the age of 101. He was a successful businessman having founded Maderak Construction in 1952 with his wife, Katie. He was also an active board member of the Builders Association.

Joe and his family were active members of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church. He also was a lifelong member of the Lions Club; he received a lifetime membership for more than 50 years of service.

Joe served in the U.S. Navy in the South Pacific during World War II. I was pleased to have known and worked with Joe.

10 Ways To Protect Your Personal Information

Identity theft affects millions of people each year and can cause serious harm. Protect yourself by securing your personal information, understanding the threat of identity theft, and exercising caution.

Here are 10 things you can start doing now to protect yourself and your loved ones from identity theft:

- 1. Protect your Social Security number by keeping your Social Security card in a safe place at home. Don't carry it with you or provide your number unnecessarily.
- 2. Be careful when you speak with unknown callers. Scammers may mislead you by using legitimate phone numbers or the real names of officials. If they threaten you or make you feel uneasy, hang up.
- 3. Create strong, unique passwords for each of your accounts. Use different passwords for different accounts so if a hacker gains access to one account, they can't access others.
- 4. Never give your personal or financial information in response to an unsolicited call or message, and never post it on social media.
 - 5. Shred paper documents that

On Thursday, July 11, 2024, 11:30 a.m., Judy O'Mara, Director of the Kansas State University Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory, will discuss Summer Problems in the Garden and Landscape. The class will be held in the Sunflower Room of the Wyandotte County Extension Office, 1208 N. 79th Street, Kansas City KS. Pre-registration is not necessary. A $10 class fee (cash or check) is payable at the door.

contain personal information, like your name, birth date, or Social Security number.

- 6. Protect your mobile device from unauthorized access by securing it with a PIN, adding a fingerprinting feature or facial recognition. You can also add a password and adjust the time before your screen automatically locks.
- 7. Regularly check your financial accounts for suspicious transactions.
- 8. Avoid internet threats by installing and maintaining strong anti-virus software on all your devices—including your mobile device and personal computer. Use a virtual private network (VPN) to stay safe on public Wi-Fi. Do not perform activities that involve sensitive data, like online shopping and banking, on public Wi-Fi networks.

- 9. Protect yourself on social media by customizing your security settings and deleting accounts you no longer use. Also, double check suspicious messages from your contacts, as hackers may create fake accounts of people you know.
- 10. Never open a link sent via unsolicited email or text message. Type in the web address yourself. Only provide information on secure websites.

We encourage you to create your own personal my Social Security account to track your earnings record. Governor Kelly Signs Bill Providing Tax Cuts for All Kansans Gov. Also Signs Legislation to Attract Professional Sports Teams to the State

TOPEKA-Governor Laura Kelly announced that she has signed Senate Bill 1, bipartisan legislation that will provide tax cuts for all Kansans without threatening the state's long-term fiscal health. The bill reduces property and income taxes, immediately eliminates the state tax on Social Security income, and increases the standard deduction and Child and Dependent Care

Tax Credit

"I am proud to be delivering on my commitment to responsible, meaningful tax relief for all Kansans," Governor Laura Kelly said. "I appreciate the Legislature's quick work to pass this tax relief package. Senate Bill 1 provides significant tax relief while preserving our ability to continue fully funding our public schools, roads and bridges, and State Water Plan."

The governor also signed House Bill 2001, enabling the use of the Sales Tax and Revenue (STAR) Bonds, an economic development tool, to expand Kansas' portfolio of professional sports teams. STAR Bonds allow the issuance of bonds to finance the development of major commercial, entertainment, and tourism projects. The bonds are paid off through the sales tax revenue generated by the development.

"We know that modernizing our economic development tools provides the opportunity to increase private investment into the state," Governor Kelly said. "By modifying the STAR Bonds program, one of our strongest economic development mechanisms, law-makers crafted a viable option for attracting professional sports teams to Kansas."

Quotes To Ponder

By Tom Valverde

"I can't believe I have to say this, but it is not normal that the Supreme Court is taking its sweet time to decide if a former president is immune from prosecution for inciting an insurrection to overturn an election. This should have been decided already. The answer is No!"

Robert Reich Emeritus, Carmel P. Friesen professor of Public Policy at the University of California

The Supreme Court may ultimately say that the former president does not have immunity. But, in fact, they will have given him immunity because this case will not go to trial before the election in November. Trump is trying to avoid, at all costs, the facts of what happened on January 6th, that are charged in the Special Counsel's indictment... that the facts do not get presented in court, where facts actually matter and the American people are able to hear it.

Trump can claim that this is all just a smear campaign by his political adversary and avoid having this actually, confronted by a jury...

When you're dealing with the crimes that are alleged here, which is, illegally staying in office (after losing an election). That is an absolute violation of the Constitution.

Neal Katyal, fmr Solicitor General, Professor of Law at Georgetown

University and MSNBC legal advisor

The question before the Supreme Court should have been simply to ask whether a president, criminally seeking to extend his stay in office beyond the end of his term, has absolute immunity from prosecution for crimes committed in that vein. That would have been the right question to ask. And it could only have had one answer!

Professor Laurence Tribe at Georgetown University and MSNBC legal analyst

How many times has Trump used the Courts to delay his criminal trials? He was found to be guilty in two trials and the Special Counsel has much evidence to prove his cases against the former president. What a shame that he continues to have the support of the gullible. Some people are willing to "look the other way" and are happy with a convicted felon as their candidate. And they send their dollars to the "Billionaire".

It's win at any cost! Honor, integrity, mean nothing to his voters. And they believe the fake videos of President Biden. They believe anything they hear from Trump, a felon in multiple criminal court cases and everything else is "fake news".
